HARMONY FOR WHOLE TICKET EXPRESSED BY MEN DEFEATED

At the June Primary and Who Set at Rest Silly Stories of Opponents That Have Been Circulated.

STATEMENTS ISSUED TODAY.

By Judge E. H. Reppert, George Patterson and Harry Kinsinger All of Whom Urge Earnest and Vigorous Support for Republican Ticket.

UNIONTOWN, October 26.—In perfect harmony the forces of Republicanism of Fayette county are marching forward shoulder to shoulder in a great victory on November 5. They say the political agitators have been busy circulating stories that the party is divided against itself and that the men who participated in the primaries last June were disposed to show a personal spite against the ticket because of their defeat.

While no such conditions were ever credited by the party leaders, the men whose motives have been most called in question by the would-be agitators have taken prompt means to dispel any doubts as to the loyalty in the party under all conditions.

After the result was known Judge Reppert recognized he had been fairly defeated and the following letter published in the newspapers of Fayette county:

I take this method of expressing my gratitude to those friends who so loyally and faithfully supported me in the last primary. While I regret that their efforts did not meet with success, I feel that adds to my sense of obligation to them. Now that the contest is ended it is the duty of all engaged therein to put aside the irritations and aspersions of the campaign and give to my success or defeat the same dispassionate consideration as the candidate chosen the undivided and earnest support of the party to which we are united by the ties of friendship and whose interests are paramount to that of any individual.

Seeing that the numerous politicians paid no attention to this and that they claimed "conditions had changed," Judge Reppert today gives out the following letter to the Republicans of Fayette county:

Immediately after the late primary, by a card published in the newspapers, I frankly expressed myself as to the obligations of those who defeated me, whether as candidates or voters, to accept its results and to give to the ticket nominated faithfully and loyally support. What I then said I now reaffirm.

UNDERGROUND DISASTER.

Five Killed and Seventeen Killed in London Subway.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Special).—Five persons were killed and seventeen were injured in a crash in the Metropolitan Underground Railway between a moving train and one standing at a platform.

IMPORTING GOLD.

National City Banks Have Negotiations on to Import $5,000,000 to Help Financial Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Negotiations are under way for the importation of $5,000,000 in gold by the National City Bank. It is expected that the institution will receive the new gold, which will arrive in London on Monday from South Africa. Another bank is planning to import $1,000,000 in gold. The line is intact at the Lincoln Trust Company, which is paying all claims. J. P. Morgan is suffering from a severe cold, but is at his office as usual.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The Treasury Department has declined the request of Representative Burdett to place $10,000,000 in Southern banks to prevent a shortage of currency. The Treasury department charges, thereby, that the department shows favoritism to Wall Street.

Acting Secretary Edwards explained that the Treasury has just enough funds now to carry on the running business. Cotton warehouse receipts are not acceptable security according to the policy of the Treasury.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 26.—At a meeting of the Clearing House Committee it was decided to come to the assistance of local banks wherever asked. The financial system here is more reassuring today.

James Stillman, President of the National City Bank, today said the financial situation is greatly improved. The stock market is simply a cash market. There is no speculative trading for other long or short account. Government bonds are unchanged; railroad and other bonds are lower.

CORNERSTONE LAID.

Records of Interest Are Sealed in Armory Building.

The brass box containing various articles that will prove of interest in future years was sealed in the cornerstone of the new armory building on the South Side this morning. The affair was attended with ceremony. The box contains copies of Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Connellsville papers containing stories on the armory. The Adjutant General's report for 1906, a roster of Company D, 10th State Army and Navy Journal, the plans of the building and a blank establishment paper.

HUNTING SEASON.

Many Hunters Are of the Opinion That It Begins Too Early Now.

Rabbit hunters who ventured out at the opening of the season on Tuesday, October 25, were much to realize that the date was entirely too early to begin shooting cottontails in this State. To kill rabbits with the fields and woodlands still carrying summer foliage is like picking strawberries before they are ripe, very unsatisfactory and a waste of time and effort.

Quite a number of quail were reported to have been killed on October 25, notwithstanding the fact that the quail shooting season does not open until November 1. One young man proudly boasted of the quail he had bagged on arriving home the evening of the opening day of the rabbit season. "Why, everybody I met took a crack at quail when they were found," said he, "and I know of a number of gunners who killed more quail than I did."

Of course ignorance would not be accepted in court as an excuse for breaking the law, but there are doubtless many other gunners who take the same view of the matter as the young man in question. It is a surprising and unwise law that permits hunters to roam the fields and woodlands where various species of game exist until such a time as it is legal for him to kill such game as he may come across. During the first two weeks of October woodcock, pheasants and snipe were in season, but it was illegal to kill wild turkeys and rabbits after October 15. Quail are protected for another ten days but many a Bob White will be killed during that time.

It would be impossible to prevent this illegal killing no matter how numerous the game wardens and with too few employed it is practically up to the hunters themselves. Practical men are needed to interpret the game interests of this state.

TWO PRISONERS.

Appeared Before Burgess Session This Morning for Sentence—Miss Inell Well Returned.

Only two prisoners appeared before Burgess Session this morning, one being sentenced to 30 days for drunkenness and the other a suspicious character, discharged. John Povell of Mt. Pleasant was given 10 hours for drinking too much beer. Albert Gordon, a negro, came from Rockwood last night to look for a missing express package. After giving an account of himself and taking gratuitous advice from the Burgess, he departed on his way.

The missing ink well which was stolen from the Burgess' desk several nights ago, has been located and returned. It was found in cell No. 11, but how it got there is still a mystery.

CHARLES H. RUSH DIES SUDDENLY.

Widely Known Uniontown Man Expired at Home Yesterday.

HAD BEEN ILL FOR TWO YEARS.

Spent Many Years in the Hotel Business and for Some Time Was Proprietor of the Young House in Connellsville.

Charles H. Rush, one of the most widely known hotel men in Western Pennsylvania, died at his apartment in the First National Bank building, Uniontown, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Rush had been taking with him wife and had apparently been in his usual health, although for two years past he had been in a weakened condition. Mr. Rush was 70 years old. Yesterday morning he was on the stairs and had been to breakfast at the McChesland House.

He spent the greater portion of his life in Uniontown. He conducted the McChesland House there for many years and under his proprietorship it became a famous hostelry. He came to Connellsville several years ago, buying the Young House from Mrs. Josephine Roberts. About three years ago he sold the house to James McGinnis, the present owner and proprietor, and went to Uniontown where he had since lived a retired life. Mr. Rush was an affable gentleman and warm and steadfast in his friendships.

Charles Henry Rush was born in Fayette county, near the village of Farmington, in December, 1837. He was the son of Sebastian (Boss) and Margaret Rush. For many years during his early life he was connected with his father in running the old Fayette Springs hotel near Chalk Hill. In the late part of the 1860s his hotel was quite an important one and was known over the entire route. Sebastian Rush was for many years superintendent of the National Pike on this division and after his death Charles Rush took up the work and through his labors the pike along the mountain was always kept in excellent shape.

When 35 years of age Charles Rush came to Uniontown and entered upon a mercantile career. His first connection was in partnership association with Asbel G. Smith in carrying on a dry goods business on the south side of Main street. Two years after this he returned to Uniontown to his partner and embarked in the same business for himself.

After a few years he associated himself with D. J. Hupwood and retired from the business in 1885. His first connection with the McChesland House was in 1887. He was in charge there for seven years. For a short time he owned the Central Hotel, but disposed of it to remove to Johnston, where he conducted the Merchants' Hotel.

Returning to Uniontown in 1894, he took charge of the Central, remaining there for several years, during which time he made a great reputation among the traveling men of the state. Mr. Rush was a member of Fayette Lodge No. 228, F. & A. M., Union Chapter No. 165, S. A. M., Union Commandery No. 49 K. T. and Syria Temple.

He survived by his widow, formerly Mrs. Margaret Douthett, and the following children by former marriage: Charles H. and James S., both of Uniontown; Mrs. Charles (Rush) of Johnston; Mrs. B. J. Miller of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Olive Leach and Mrs. L. L. Crawford, both of Uniontown; and three sisters, Mrs. Howard Van Brannon, Mrs. E. H. Abraham and Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, all of Uniontown.

The funeral will take place at two o'clock Monday afternoon from the First Presbyterian church, Rev. W. H. Spence officiating. Interment in Oak Grove cemetery.

PURCHASES PROPERTY.

Lloyd Johnston Buys Home of S. W. Metzler on South Side.

Lloyd Johnston of the South Side has purchased the South Pittsburg street residence of S. W. Metzler, of the Wright-Metzler Company, and will take possession January 1, next. Mr. Metzler purchased the property from Captain Lloyd Johnston some months ago, but has since been made manager of the Uniontown store of the Wright-Metzler Company.

After the first of January Mr. Metzler will take up his residence in the County Seat.

A RECEPTION.

Given at the First Baptist Church for Rev. and Mrs. E. A. E. Palmer.

Handsomely appointed was a large reception given last evening in the First Baptist church on South Pittsburg street in honor of the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. E. A. E. Palmer. The hours were from 8:30 until 10 o'clock during which time the church was filled with members of the congregation and their friends. Refreshments were served in the dining room of the church and the church was filled with members of the congregation and their friends.

MEETING TONIGHT.

School Directors Get Call and All of Them Will Likely Be on Hand.

Indications are that there will be something doing in School Board circles this evening, as a meeting has been called by President John L. Gann for seven o'clock sharp. According to the call the Board is to take action on President Gann's resignation, together with other general business, which includes the election of a member in the Third Ward to succeed W. D. McGinnis, resigned.

The last meeting of the Board was taken at the extreme, but it is expected that the things will live up to tonight. President Gann is moving from Connellsville to Uniontown, in order to be closer to his work along the Monongahela river.

A new name has come to the front in the last few days and it is now being given prominence by the Monongahela river. The name is that of a new man, Howard, has aspirations along this line for sometime, it is said, and may realize his ambitions tonight. This would place an attorney on the Board, the law having been honored with a position in the body several times in the past. It is said that Howard's name will be presented in event that Crawford Stillwagon is not elected.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Tendered Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Fradette Last Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Fradette were tendered a pleasant surprise party last evening at their home on East Fairview avenue at which about 25 guests were present.

The affair was arranged by a number of their friends. Cards and music were the amusements until a late hour, when refreshments were served. The head prize at pool was won by Miss Nellie Beckman.

Warmer on Sunday.

Rain and much wind tonight and Sunday is the forecast of the noon weather bulletin.

CONNELLVILLE MAN ARRESTED IN RICHMOND FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

H. R. Barber, Discharged From Employ of Pittsburgh Safe Co., Juggled Funds of Barnes Co., It Is Said.

ALSO MATRIMONIAL TROUBLES.

Deserted Wife in Connellsville and Few Weeks Ago Was Again Married. Lead a Gay Social Life in the Old Virginia Town.

H. R. Barber, formerly employed as a salesman for the Pittsburgh Safe Company, has been arrested in Richmond, Va., on charges of embezzlement preferred by the Barnes & Safe & Lock Company for whom he worked. Barber was married a couple of weeks ago, while he still has a wife living in Connellsville.

Financial troubles are said to have been the cause of Barber leaving his position with the local safe company, after which he deserted his wife and child. Mrs. Barber No. 1 still lives in Connellsville, where she is employed. Since his second marriage in Richmond the young man has been leading a gay career until his pretensions were discovered. He is in the Richmond jail and so far has been unable to secure bail.

The cause of Barber's discharge from the employ of the Pittsburgh Safe Company has been a matter of mystery. It is understood that he became mixed up in a financial difficulty and was discharged. The local concern declined to prosecute him.

Mrs. Barber of Connellsville remained in Richmond after her husband left her. She enjoys an excellent reputation and had little difficulty in securing remunerative employment after the trial manner in which she had been treated.

NO TRACE OF HAHN.

Officials Unable to Find a Trace of the Alleged Defaulter Who Took Money.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 26.—As yet no trace has been found of Albert Hahn, the young man who is alleged to have defaulted yesterday with $2,000 belonging to the Davis-Palmer Contracting Company, which is constructing the railroad from Laurel run on the Baltimore & Ohio line to Jacobs Creek, where William H. Cochran is building a coke plant.

Hahn is alleged to have gone to Uniontown yesterday to get money to pay his men and failed to return. His wife, at Connellsville No. 1, professes to know where he is.

COAL FAMINE.

Uniontown, Surrounded by Mines, Finds It Almost Impossible to Buy Fuel.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 26.—Surrounded by mines on every side, Uniontown is facing a serious coal famine. Coal, everywhere, but not a "bump to burn" will be the cry if the present situation continues.

The custom dealers are falling miserably to supply the demand and orders have to be made weeks before delivery. Even when it is possible to get a load, 10 cents a bushel is charged.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing month: President, William Brinkman; Vice President, Robert Norton; Secretary, Mike Edith; Treasurer, Robert Solson; Attorney, Isiah Moore; Christy, James Munson; Critch, Emma Miller; Marshall, Basil Solson.

Union Veteran Legion.

The regular monthly meeting of the Union Veteran Legion was held last evening in Rutask's Hall. A large number of veterans were present and the meeting was an enthusiastic one. Reports were given from the annual reunion recently held at Gettysburg.

George Westinghouse Says
Control of Big Companies
Will Rest With Him.

TRouble IS ONLY TEMPORARY

Declares That in Three Weeks He Will Again Be in Charge of Properties Now in Receivers' Hands —
Plants Will Not Close.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 25.—Despite the necessity of receiverships for four of his corporations, including the great Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, George Westinghouse says he expects to be doing business again on his own hook within three weeks.

Mr. Westinghouse was asked the question whether the stories current to the effect that he is to be deposed from the active management of the Westinghouse interests are correct. He turned the question over to the receiver and asked:

"What have you heard? What information have you relative to the report you speak of?"

Mr. Westinghouse was told that the correspondents had only heard to the effect that the banking interests intended taking from him the financial management of the properties bearing his name and which had taken his lifetime to build up. Mr. Westinghouse replied:

"They may think they have me down, but they haven't. If they are trying this same game they did 15 years ago, they have not done it by a long shot. Let me be clear questioned about the story that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had secured control of the stock of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and would take over the management."

"I have heard such a report, but they have not done so and I will maintain control of the properties." The associated banks carrying the Westinghouse securities have decided to hold their shares and not call for dividends or offer them for sale. In this manner an industrial panic has been averted. It is current rumor that George Westinghouse will be retained as the managing head, but that the financial control will be left to the receiver. His entire fortune, invested in the Security Investment company, is tied up in the various Westinghouse securities.

The application for a receiver for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company was made before Judge Ewing in the United States court. The bill of complaint shows that the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company is indebted to the Cooper-Hewitt company for $250,000. It is set forth that $1,000,000 bearing interest at 5 per cent. The company is unable to meet interest and sinking fund payments or bills payable.

Any uneasiness which may have been felt by the 30,000 workmen in the Westinghouse plants as to future employment or pay for work already done was set at ease when Judge Ewing directed that $225,000 be set aside to pay wages of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company employees. T. Hart Owen, chairman of the receivers, announced that the plants will be kept in full operation.

The failure of the Iron City Trust company was set at ease when Judge Ewing directed that $225,000 be set aside to pay wages of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company employees. T. Hart Owen, chairman of the receivers, announced that the plants will be kept in full operation.

Shopping in Pittsburgh

"Gracious, how time does fly when you're shopping! Here it is noon and it seems we haven't been anywhere. Do you know a nice place to get a good lunch? I'm nearly famished," said one faultlessly-dressed woman to another as they came out of a downtown department store.
"I know a perfect place and it's not far away either," replied her companion. "It's the Hotel Lincoln. Last time Charles and I were in Pittsburgh he had me there for lunch and we liked it so well we went back for dinner. We'll lunch in the Colonial room—it's the most attractive place you ever saw. Charles and I saw many women there without escorts, so it will be all right for us."

"Well, let's hurry, because I'm getting hungry every minute. What did you have to eat? We had something splendid and delicious. I had a salad, a hot soup, a roast of lamb and a nice sauce, of course, potatoes in cream and macaroni. Oh, yes, and some fine buckwheat cake."

"Sound like a treat. Let's go in this instant. Oh, isn't this delicious!" as they enter the Colonial room.
They enter again, they had just time to settle themselves comfortably when the foot waiter served. An hour or so later they were ready to return to their shops. Having had a perfectly delicious lunch and "it didn't cost much, either."

His Courtship

By HELEN R. MARTIN.
Author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid."

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY MCGRAW, HILL & COMPANY.

"But they would stop my coming in the future. I have kept them from knowing these many years."

"These many years? You have been in the habit of coming to this room?"

"Every night for many years."

"Ah! the excitement! When you are the ghost? The flickering light seen at the windows by passersby in your candle?"

"Yes."

"What did you come for?"

"To read."

"He sat upright in his chair. 'For many years you have been reading the books in this room?'"

"Yes."

"He stared at her for an instant spellbound with astonishment. Then he sank back in his chair, sitting together the tips of his fingers, a habit of his when trying to think things out."

"Yes," he said slowly. "I see."

"He asked her a question abruptly."

"Why would the Morningsstars stop it if they knew?"

"They would think it made me less going to work for them—saying up at night. You will not tell them?" she repeated anxiously.

"Of course I shall not tell—that goes without saying, child. But he asked curiously, 'were you never afraid to come here—knowing the place was haunted?'"

"I had great fear. But my longing to read the books was even greater."

"Your refusal to tell me the other evening how you came by the few books you had read—you were afraid I might betray you?"

"Always the great dread has been upon me of having this only possession of my life taken away from me. It has made me cautious. But I would trust you now," she said with a restrained eagerness. "With any secret I had, I would trust you to—no the secret."

"Thank you, Eunice," he answered gravely, an odd feeling of pleasure stirring in his heart.

"He drew himself up and leaned toward the bookcase, examining in the light of his new knowledge their titles."

"So then it has been your secret reading that has made of you such an anomaly in the midst of these Morningsstars. Living as you do, in the heart of them, your real life has been spent in the world of fiction and history and poetry. Yes," he nodded. "I begin to see daylight now."

"As a psychologist he felt an almost exciting interest in her as a case to be studied, with her peculiar mental equipment of a really extensive knowledge of literature, combined with an absolute ignorance of actual life, and the affectional and emotional side of her nature left utterly dormant."

"Will you tell me," she timidly urged, "whether you have been told the story of this room? I know there is a story connected with it, but it has always been kept from me."

Although Kloros held it to be an old fogey notion that a girl should be guarded from all knowledge of evil, yet he had an instinctive aversion to pouring into the ears of this childlike maiden the story of the crime which Mrs. Morningsstar had related to him.

On second thought, however, why should he hesitate when she had nerves steady enough to meet a ghost and a will so firm that in all these years she had kept the secret of her surreptitious reading unconsciously educating herself thereby possibly far beyond what many a girl gained from a systematic schooling? Surely the girl had "race" back of her, with her courage to face a ghost, her love of books, strong as to overcome obstacles that would have daunted any ordinary character and her active refinement of thought and instinct which he felt in her presence.

But he bethought him of another reason why he did not wish to repeat to her at once Mrs. Morningsstar's tale. There was the paper he had thrust into his pocket at the sound of her step in the hall bearing that "confession." Until he had read that he would rather tell her nothing.

"Will you wait," he begged her, "and let me think it over first before I tell you what I know? Believe me," he added as he saw her look of disappointment, "that I hold your welfare sacred and that in asking you to wait I do what seems to me to be for your good."

He was surprised at the glow which irradiated her countenance at his words. She was so unused to being considered, he reflected, that a mere tone of kindness called forth all the latent brightness of her soul. Little did he dream how his words sang in her ears, "I hold your welfare sacred," and that the music of the spheres could not have seemed to her more wonderful in spite of the fact that since that night on the terrace her heart had been heavy with the knowledge that he loved Georgiana.

"I will wait," she said, unwaveringly in her voice that held him with its spell, "until you are ready to tell me."

A disturbing possibility had suddenly occurred to him. Surely if that "confession" amounted to anything, Eunice would herself have found it out. He had supposed he had come upon a discovery, and he felt a pang of disappointment as he realized the probability of his having been mistaken.

Those books on the top shelf, those Bibles," he suddenly said, "they were the only books I found dusty. Ah, of course," he added, "you don't read French, that's all!"

Then perhaps, after all, she had never seen this paper in his breast pocket—extraordinary, indeed, if during all these years the secret of her history should have thus been within her reach and yet escaped her. A desire came to him to take it out and read it with her, but he thought better of it.

"You know nothing really of yourself—your mind, your origin, your life before you were left here with the Morningsstars?"

A pensive droop to her lips as she shook her head with her answer. After a moment she looked up at him, her eyes almost solemn as she spoke.

"You say it is for my good that you withhold for the time what you know of this room. It is, then, as I have often suspected, bound up in some way with my life?"

"He hesitated an instant. 'Let us not speak of it just yet, Eunice.'"

"Very well," she acquiesced gently. "I have so often wished," she added, "that if inanimate things could really take on impressions from the lives of the people that use them and afterward give out those impressions, this place would speak to me of its history!"

It was not to be wondered at that her ideas were thus fantastic, he thought. The effect of her seclusion upon one who lived a life as isolated from the world as a nun's and whose mind was left undisciplined by any other mental exercise was so curious as to be almost phenomenal.

"But do you know how soon you can tell me?" she asked.

"Probably the next time we can be alone together. And don't let it be a week from now. When and where shall it be?"

"In this room tomorrow night?" she suggested.

"Can't you come to me on the terrace again?" he proposed, quite unwilling to expose her to the scandal which must arise if they were found alone in this chamber in the small hours of the night.

"We would not be interrupted or in any way disturbed here," she said, her clear eyes so full of any improbability in her proposal that he would no more have suggested it to her than he would have offered poison to a babe.

"You know," she added, "they all have great fear of this part of the house. On the terrace we might be seen. Ah!"

She stopped short as though to ward off an onrush of rain.

But Kloros realized that perhaps she was right. They ran little or no risk of interruption in this room.

"Let us meet here, then, tomorrow night, and I will tell you what I can."

He was conscious of the fact that in the course of their talk she had seemed to him like a young wild flower growing under a soft rain.

"Do you know, Eunice, it isn't true—that you told me the other night—that you have no education? You have read and I have reason to believe, assimilated the best of English letters."

"You call me educated?" she asked, with interest.

"Technically an educated person is one who knows the multiple canons of literature. I am not sure that you do."

"She shook her head sadly. 'And I can't spell either.'"

"Your education is dreadfully one-sided," he said, smiling. "But take comfort. This is the day for specialists. I believe that your knowledge of English is at least in rather thorough."

"Would it serve me in supporting myself?" she eagerly asked.

"Surely. The wonder to me is that you have not through some occult process learned to read those Bibles."

"She looked at him doubtfully.

"You never even glanced into them?"

"Long ago I used to take one down occasionally and wish I could read it."

"And it been fortunate or unfortunate for her, she wondered, that she had missed this 'confession' in his pocket? That remained to be seen, and he was eager to be alone in his room to read it. He felt a reluctance to bringing this interesting revelation to an end, but he must without delay be alone to read the secret in his pocket. He rose from his chair.

"It's getting awfully late, Eunice. I'd better go now. We will meet here tomorrow night then? At what time?"

"I can come as soon as Ollie falls asleep. She was restless tonight, and it made me late. She is usually quiet by half past eight at the latest."

"She shall be waiting for you here at that time. And now I think you'd better get some rest and not stop here to read."

He held out his hand to her. "Good night!"

Without rising from the bed she laid her slim fingers in his, and he clasped them for an instant as he looked down into her eyes upraised to his. There was something in her pale-blue gaze, "quite as very true," which set his own pulse to bounding and which made him feel for the first time in her presence the full force of a fascinating personality. The charm of a most sweet womanhood.

He clasped her hand almost fiercely, then turned away abruptly and went from the room.

CHAPTER XVI.

SEATED on the side of his bed, his lamp burning out the brass of his elbow, Dr. Kloros, in the small hours of the morning, read the paper he had found in the haunted room.

Both the wording of it and the personality gave evidence that the writer was a person of some education, though at times her phraseology was stilted, bookish and even a little melodramatic.

LIFE'S JOURNEY

Is Burdensome to Many in Connellsville.

Life's journey is a heavy burden with a constantly aching back, with urinary disorders, diabetes, with any kidney ill.

Don't let your kidneys suffer and cure. Here is Connellsville proof that this is so:

Mrs. John Kerns 216 Main St., Connellsville, Pa., says: "During the summer of 1897 Mr. Kerns took Donan's Kidney Pills and received the greatest relief from symptoms of kidney trouble. At the time he was suffering from pain through his back and back which often became so severe that he was almost unable to move. These were especially severe, if he caught cold or overworked himself in any way. The kidney secretions also gave him some trouble and he was in bad shape when he started taking Donan's Kidney Pills, procured at Graham & Company's drug store. They gave him immediate relief and strengthened his kidneys." From statement given May 15th, 1904.

Confirmed Proof.

On October 17th, 1907, Mrs. Kerns confirmed her statement in the following words: "Mr. Kerns has had occasion to use Donan's Kidney Pills on two or three occasions when he has had a slight cold or overworked himself in any way. The kidney secretions also gave him some trouble and he was in bad shape when he started taking Donan's Kidney Pills, procured at Graham & Company's drug store. Giant Burglar Binds and Gags Woman and Loots Her Apartments.

HE SLASHES HER WITH A RAZOR

Mr. Rogers of Ross Township, Near Bellevue, Has Terrifying Experience With Thief, Who Escapes With Several Hundred Dollars in Booty

Pittsburg, Oct. 25.—Solved by a giant masked burglar forced into a chair gagged and bound with a rope. Mrs. W. M. Rogers was compelled to watch a robber foot her apartments and those of J. J. Adams in American avenue, Ross township, near Bellevue, until she lost consciousness from fright.

Startled by a strange noise in the first floor room Mrs. Rogers descended to investigate. She knew Mr. and Mrs. Adams, who occupied those apartments, were at and being all alone she seemed burglars.

Her intention was not wrong for as she explored the parties a man was seen from behind her, entered her room with a menacing force, forcing her back from her body. She was lifted from the floor, carried forward and a child was dropped into a chair. The white another of her hand was pressed over her mouth and no sound was uttered. She was gagged with a cloth and her strength was as most suffocating. She was gagged with a cloth and her strength was as most suffocating. She was gagged with a cloth and her strength was as most suffocating.

The thief left the connecting doors of the room open so he could watch his plundered prisoner while he ran every few minutes glancing at Mrs. Rogers who was constrained with terror. Her dazed position finally overpowered the burglar's woman and as if in a daze she emitted a loud groan.

Turning suddenly as she made the burglar whipped a razor from his inside pocket and a cut on the defenseless woman. She was up her feet involuntarily and as the razor descended it was every moment to cut her throat. The blade sank in a few seconds above the ankle.

Sluice caused and the burglar continued his depredations. He took from Mrs. Rogers a dress and $20 from Mrs. Rogers's purse. He took from Mrs. Rogers's purse a small bag containing a few dollars. He took from Mrs. Rogers's purse a small bag containing a few dollars.

WRITER IN TROUBLE

Well Known Washington Pa. Man Under Serious Charges

Pittsburg, Oct. 25.—A sensational case, which is soon to be disposed of in the United States district court here is that of H. C. Shuster, a well known resident of Washington Pa. and pension agent at that place. He is 65 years old and is charged with sending an improper letter to Mrs. J. J. Wellen, a prominent club woman of Washington Pa. in which he is out on bail. He was indicted by the grand jury and entered a plea of not guilty.

A FINE SHOW

Was His Honor the Mayor at Colonial Last Evening

"His Honor the Mayor" presided last evening at the Colonial Theatre was one of the best musical comedies presented here for some time. The audience was large and their verdict of the show was shown by the repeated applause given each number. There was not a dull moment in the show.

Ministers Meet Today

A meeting of the Ministers Association is being held at the Fairmount Hotel this afternoon. A large number of ministers are expected to attend the meeting.
